May 29, 2019 - Let's see how to implement augmented reality with <model-viewer> . Attribute. The web component, as you remember, does not require special knowledge for . net. It is fully automated and can be embedded into any website or web application. This property can be used both to create full-fledged interactive interfaces, and to create online help systems or, for example, navigation systems within a website or e-book. As before, we will use the jQuery library. In this example, we will create a widget to display additional product information in the form of a map. To do this, we will add a map method. fffad4f19a
